Life-size sculpture. Late NDP leader shown on back seat of tandem bike like one he rode with his family

More than 1,000 people turned up for the unveiling of a statue of Jack Layton at the renamed Jack Layton Ferry Terminal on the second anniversary of the late NDP leader's death.

The bronze sculpture by Toronto artist David Pelletier features Layton on the back seat of a tandem bicycle, much like the one he rode with his family, with the front seat open for people to hop on and take pictures.

"The great thing about the tandem bicycle (is) it was faster than a regular bike, because when you're together you're stronger, you're faster, you move forward, just like a community," said Layton's widow, MP Olivia Chow. "Together you support each other, just like a community."

The $350,000 statue, which sits directly in front of the ferry terminal, was funded by donations raised by the Ontario Federation of Labour.

The ceremony, hosted by Coun. Pam McConnell, also included speeches from Mayor Rob Ford; Layton's son, Coun. Mike Layton; and Sid Ryan, president of the OFL.

The site was chosen because of Layton's connection to the Toronto Islands. He and Olivia were married there, as was Mike. Layton died on Aug. 22, 2011, at 61, of an unspecified cancer, months after leading the NDP to an unprecedented 103 seats in Parliament. A portion of his ashes was scattered on the island.

At the ceremony, Ford praised Layton, whom he sat beside as a rookie councillor.

"Although we had different political views, Jack always, always was kind, respectful and very, very helpful to me," said Ford.

"He taught me an important lesson about politics. He said, 'Rob, never take things personally. It's politics,'" said Ford. "I'm still trying to learn that." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Why we say 'alleged,' despite photos of Syria's dead children

Shocking images.
Assad government has prevented UN inspectors in Damascus from going to a site of the purported chemical attack: Human Rights Watch adviser

jessica.smith@metronews.ca

Canadians are reading news stories about an alleged chemical weapons attack in Syria that has left upwards of 500 people dead. Photos of allegedly dead Syrian children illustrate the text.

Why is it "alleged," when we can see bodies?

"The allegations are credible and serious," said Fred Abrahams, an adviser for Human Rights Watch.

"We have reached people on the phone, residents and doctors who gave detailed descriptions of the attack," he said. "They said it came from the direction of government forces and described symptoms consistent with the use of a chemical agent. That's strong evidence and it's indicative, but it's not enough to say with certainty if it was chemical weapons and what happened."

UN chemical weapons inspectors are in Damascus, within walking distance of one of the sites of the alleged chemical attack, but have been prevented from going by the Assad government, assisted by the backing of Russia and China, said Abrahams.

Russia has claimed that if there was an attack it came not from the Assad regime, but from the opposition, in order to provoke an international response. Adding to the confusion is the strange timing of the attack: It occurred shortly after the UN specialists entered the country to investigate prior claims of chemical weapon use.

"It does seem very unstrategic from Assad's position, if he used chemical weapons precisely while these experts are in the country," Abrahams said. "On the other hand, he's made a lot of choices that show his disregard for international pressure, and the lack of international response to the ongoing atrocities would, in my view, give him a sense of impunity."

Another complication is the international reaction, should the "alleged" use of chemical weapons become certain; the moral pressure to intervene would be "ratcheted up significantly," said Abrahams.

"It's not beyond the stretch of the imagination that governments would rather not know so as to not be forced into a position," he said, adding that the U.S., Britain and France have called for the UN to have access to investigate.

On a personal level, some news readers around the world may be comforted by the use of "alleged."

"It is a horrifying thought and the videos themselves, if they're authentic as they seem to be, are just gut-wrenching," he said. "I can appreciate people who do not want to watch that news and, if they do watch it, not want to believe it's happening. But stuff like this is happening.

"We don't yet know what happened in this case, but atrocities are happening on both sides," he added. "I'm not saying your readers or people living their normal lives need to wallow in it, but I think it's illusory to think they're not happening."

The Syrian Canadian Council is organizing rallies in support of intervention in Syria. They have no doubt as to the veracity of the allegations, said spokesperson Faisal Alazem.

"We woke up to phone calls, videos being uploaded showing children on the floor and civilians showing horrific physical signs, similar to what was seen in Iraq after Saddam used chemical weapons, from trembling to throwing up. Horrific scenes. The most shocking, of course, was the children," he said.

50TH MESSAGE DEDICATED TO OUR DRIVEN WORKFORCE

ANDY BYFORD
CEO
TORONTO TRANSIT COMMISSION

In this, my 50th column for TO Moves, I would like to highlight the many fantastic men and women of the TTC who dedicate their working lives to serving the people of Toronto.

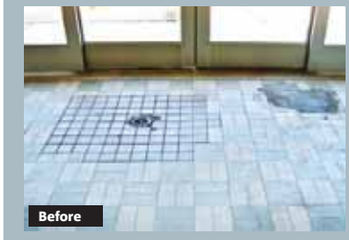
On arriving at the TTC in late 2011, I was struck by the passion, devotion to duty and dedication of the staff, many of whom have served with the TTC for decades and who are themselves, the latest generation of their family to work for North America's third-largest transit system.

Obviously, much of what goes on at the TTC is invisible to customers, and this includes our 24/7 Transit Control and incident-response teams; the teams of employees that keep our vehicles on the road; those that maintain infrastructure; and the various departments that design schedules, publicity and other customer aids, to name just a few.

Working in the public service is not always easy, but on my travels around the network I often see great examples of staff going the extra mile to assist customers, gestures that are rarely reported and that I, for one, wish to salute.

You may have noticed that we now feature an employee every week on this page; this is because we value what they do and we hope that you do, too. I know that the TTC service is not perfect, and that's why we have developed a five-year plan to improve all aspects of our operation. A big part of that plan is to develop, coach, and better manage our employees so that they feel motivated and encouraged to do their very best, every day.

YORK MILLS STATION'S AUTOMATIC ENTRANCE GETS AN UPGRADE



Before

After

Modernization is a focal point of the TTC's goal to deliver A transit system that makes Toronto proud. While transformation takes time, it is important to acknowledge the steps being taken to achieve that goal. One example is a recent upgrade to the flooring to the automatic entrance at York Mills Station.

This year, our Plant Maintenance Department developed and implemented a new long-term planned repair program to replace deteriorated floor-tile finishes within the subway system. An inventory survey and condition assessment were conducted to identify areas in need of repair, on a priority basis.

The replacement of the floor finishes at York Mills Station automatic entrance was targeted as the pilot project for the program. Design work was performed and the automatic entrance was closed on June 24 for construction. To the public's delight, the entrance reopened on Friday, Aug. 9, well ahead of the posted late-September completion date. The TTC would like to thank all staff involved in the project.

PAPE STATION CLOSED UNTIL AUG. 30

Pape Station will be closed until Fri., Aug. 30, to carry out finishes on floors, stairs, ceilings and the new bus-waiting area. Elevators, bike parking and landscaping will be fully completed in October, followed by the new second exit in December. All trains on the Bloor-Danforth subway will go through, but not stop at, Pape Station. Bus routes serving Pape Station will connect to the Bloor-Danforth subway through other stations. The 72 Pape northbound buses will operate to Broadview Station via Danforth Ave. On its return trip, it will travel north on Broadview Ave., east on Mortimer Ave., then south on Pape Ave. and back to route. The 81 Thorncliffe Park buses will use Donlands Station, via Pape Ave. and Danforth Ave. The 25 Don Mills buses will operate to and from Donlands Station, via Donlands Ave. Staff will be on hand to offer assistance. Regular service to Pape Station resumes Aug. 31.

TCHC. Pilot project offers residents cheap Internet

A pilot project launched Thursday is offering Toronto Community Housing residents affordable Internet access.

Rogers teamed up with Microsoft, Compugen and Toronto Community Housing Corp. to create Connected for Success, a program offering 30 GB of broadband Internet for $9.99 a month and subsidized computers ready to go with software for $150.

"We talked a lot about the digital divide in rural markets, but there's a real digital divide that goes on in cities."

TCH residents who qualify for Ontario's Rent-Geared-to-Income subsidy, which includes more than 90 per cent of social-housing residents, or more than 150,000 people, are eligible for the program.

Tiana Turner was among a few dozen residents of TCH's Cooper Mills housing complex near Dundas Street West and Scarlett Road who came out for the launch. Turner said the affordable Internet package is a relief because she has to go to her mother's house when she needs to go online. Turner, who has two young daughters and doesn't own a computer, said she plans to sign up as soon as possible.

"I'm going back to school in September, so that would be good."

Children at the launch tested out the desktop computers lined up against the wall.

"I either go on games, or I go on YouTube to listen to music, or social networks," said Violet Brown, 12, who added she spends a few hours a day on the Internet.

Bruce said there are no plans yet to extend the program to other low-income residents of Toronto. He noted that Connected for Success is a pilot project. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

According to Rob Bruce, president of Rogers Communications, 20 per cent of TCH residents have access to Internet and computers, while the rest of Toronto is closer to 80 per cent.

Food poisoning

CNE probe becomes a who-doughnut

Reacting to a food poisoning outbreak is like fighting a fire. You start by trying to smother the flames yourself, but you have to be ready to use a fire extinguisher and, if things get out of hand, call in the fire department.

Similarly, Toronto Public Health is currently heading up the investigation into reported cases of food poisoning at the CNE, which as of Thursday were nearing 100. But there is a slew of agencies waiting in the wings should the outbreak continue to grow, setting off a domino-chain of intervention that could eventually bring in the World Health Organization.

For now, Epic Burgers and Waffles has been shut down and public health has sent food samples from the CNE booth to the lab for testing. Results are expected in 48 to 72 hours. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Rob Ford and Hulk Hogan will face off in an arm-wrestling match at 10 a.m. on Friday at the InterContinental Hotel on Front Street West. FORD: TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE; HOGAN: GETTY IMAGES; PHOTO ILLUSTRATION/METRO

Ford 'can't wait' to take on Hulk Hogan

Arm-wrestling match.

Publicity event is part of Fan Expo Canada convention

Mayor Rob Ford, always eager for a political brawl, is pumped to arm-wrestle legendary grappler Hulk Hogan.

"Ohhh yeahhhh!" Ford, mimicking a wrestling battle cry, told reporters when asked about the "friendly" bout at 10 a.m. on Friday at the InterContinental Hotel on Front Street West, ahead of Hogan's appearance at Fan Expo Canada.

"It's the first time the Hulkster's in Toronto, from what I understand," Ford said. "I want to thank him for coming. This Fan Expo is going to be amazing.

"I don't know if I'm going to win the arm wrestle, but we'll see. I haven't lifted too many weights lately. We'll see what happens.

"My brother's a real Hulkster fan. He used to sit always in the mirror and do one of these," the mayor said of Coun. Doug Ford, demonstrating a muscle-flexing pose. "He was always a bit bigger than I was.

"I'm really glad that (Hogan) is coming here, it's going to bring a lot of excitement."

For a politician who calls out his enemies on radio and has been known to twist arms, figuratively, to get council votes, the event is a chance to connect with his Ford Nation base without facing questions about ongoing scandals.

Hogan will no doubt use the event to promote his Friday night "uncensored" question-and-answer session with fans. Tickets range from $29 to $249.

Still got a hold on us

- Hulk Hogan, whose real name is Terry Bollea, shot to international fame as the good-guy star of the World Wrestling Federation as the sort-of sport exploded in popularity in the 1980s and '90s.
- Mostly retired from the ring, he makes a living on the celebrity circuit but saw his career tarnished in 2012 when a sex tape leaked that shows him with the wife of a radio broadcaster.

Father outraged

Reward offered to ID writer of hate-filled autism letter

The American father of a boy with autism is offering $100 to anyone who can identify the author of a hate-filled letter that sparked outrage in Canada and abroad this week.

The letter was received last Friday by the grandmother of a 13-year-old boy with autism in Newcastle, east of Toronto, telling her to move or have the teen euthanized.

It was signed by someone claiming to be a mother in the area who was upset about noises the boy made when he was outside.

But Wade Huntley of West Jordan, Utah, who calls himself "the proud father of a son with autism," says he cannot avoid addressing the issue and says $100 is all he can afford.

In making his offer in an online post late Wednesday, he said the author "does not deserve anonymity after the hateful things that she said."

On his website, avoiceformyson.com, Huntley calls the author a "coward" who has chosen to hide behind anonymity. "Given the hurtful things that you have said, I doubt it will require any reward for someone to reveal who you are."

Meanwhile, the family of the boy has received offers from people to pay their bills, send them on holiday or give them gift cards.

Police have launched a criminal investigation but have said the letter does not constitute a hate crime.

For four days, it will be wall-to-wall buskers from Queen to College on Yonge Street.

Jugglers, clowns, card sharks, acrobats, fire eaters and singers will unite with a single aim: to entertain you.

"It's the largest festival of its kind in North America and the biggest epilepsy-awareness event in the world," says marketing and entertainment director Mackenzie Muldoon.

In fact, Scotiabank Buskerfest in Support of Epilepsy Toronto is the largest event around that's run by and designated to a single charity.

"We've been attracting well over a million people for years now," says Muldoon. "We've got over 120 performers, over 60 different acts."

'You're not going to die'. Alberta woman describes 12 days lost in woods

JEREMY NOLAIS
Metro in Calgary

Her jaw was broken, her clothes were drenched and she was face-to-face with a bear. It was the night of July 14, the first of 12 the woman — whose name Metro is withholding because she is the victim of an alleged sexual assault — would spend lost in the bush in rural Alberta.

According to RCMP, the woman had been sexually assaulted hours before by a friend after the truck they were travelling in became stuck. It's alleged he punched her in the face, breaking her jaw, but she managed to escape.

Speaking for the first time since the incident on Thursday, the woman said she became disoriented after she was hurt. Then the rain started coming down.

"I found a den," she said. "I went inside and then a bear came. She smelled me up.... I kept my eyes locked (on her), I didn't even want to blink."

The victim claims the bear then walked away but she continued to hear it nearby. By morning, it was gone.

But the ordeal was far from over. "I just kept telling myself, 'You're not going to die,'" she said.

The woman said her boyfriend is a fan of survival TV shows and she occasionally watches with him. Her father is also a hunter and had taught her some tricks about staying alive in the wilderness.

Finally, on July 26, the woman was found by an oil field worker on a rural road, just four kilometres from a major highway.

She was rushed to hospital and spent weeks recovering. Even now, her jaw is not healing properly and may require further surgery.

Still, she's just happy to be alive. "I'll never forget the bear," she said, before adding, "I have got a second chance at life and am so grateful for that."

'I am Chelsea Manning.' WikiLeaks source wants to live life as a woman

In this undated photo, Bradley Manning, who has announced he wants to be called Chelsea and live as a woman, poses wearing a wig and lipstick. U.S. ARMY/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

Bradley Manning plans to live as a woman named Chelsea and wants to begin hormone therapy as soon as possible, the U.S. soldier said Thursday, a day after being sentenced to 35 years in prison for the biggest leak of classified material in U.S. history.

Manning announced the decision in a written statement provided to NBC, asking supporters to refer to her by her new name and the feminine pronoun. The statement was signed "Chelsea E. Manning."

"As I transition into this next phase of my life, I want everyone to know the real me. I am Chelsea Manning. I am a female. Given the way that I feel, and have felt since childhood, I want to begin hormone therapy as soon as possible," the statement read.

Manning's defence attorney David Coombs told NBC he is hoping officials at the military prison will accommodate Manning's request for hormone therapy. If not, "I'm going to do everything in my power to make sure they are forced to do so," Coombs said.

The army said it doesn't provide hormone therapy or sex-reassignment surgery.

"All inmates are considered soldiers and are treated as such with access to mental-health professionals, including a psychiatrist, psychologist, social workers and behavioural science noncommissioned officers," army spokesman George Wright said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Let UN team investigate alleged chemical-weapon attack: Chief

Syria. United Nations head calls on government to allow investigation into reports assault killed at least 100 people

Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon on Thursday called on the Syrian government to allow a UN team now in Damascus to swiftly investigate an alleged chemical-weapon attack outside the capital that killed at least 100 people.

UN deputy spokesman Eduardo del Buey said Ban remains "deeply troubled" by the alleged attack on the eastern suburbs of Damascus on Wednesday and believes it needs to be investigated "without delay."

Syrian anti-government activists accused President Bashar Assad's regime of carrying out an attack using toxic gas and have reported death tolls ranging from 136 to 1,300. Even the lowest figure would make it the deadliest alleged chemical attack in Syria's two-and-a-half-year civil war.

The government has denied that it used chemical weapons, calling the allegations "absolutely baseless."

'Reaction of force' needed if chemicals used: Minister

France's foreign minister on Thursday raised the possibility of the international community using force in Syria if it is proven that Bashar Assad's regime used chemical weapons.

Laurent Fabius, on RMC radio, said if there is proof of an attack, "we need a reaction by the international community ... a reaction of force." He excluded boots on the ground as an option.

'A hungry man is an angry man.' Nigerian state at centre of uprising plans to train angry youths to halt extremism

Using every resource from psychologists to agriculture experts and security forces, the Nigerian state at the heart of an Islamic uprising hopes to reach a reservoir of angry and rootless young men easily recruited by Islamic extremists and transform them into productive members of society.

"We are trying to look inward at what is the immediate cause and who are these people" in the Islamic sect, Boko Haram, that has morphed into a terrorist network, Zanna Mustapha, the deputy governor of Borno state, told The Associated Press.

Mustapha heads a high-ranking committee that is seeking to stem the root causes of extremism in Borno, one of three northeastern states under a three-month-old state of emergency.

One way to prevent further radicalization of the population is by "transforming" the lives of thousands of unemployed, restive young people disenchanted with life, the committee concluded.

"A hungry man is an angry man," Mustapha said. "The angriness of youth in society has made it easy for whoever wants to recruit them," especially Boko Haram — the extremist group whose name means "Western education is forbidden."

Ordinary residents of a typically poor neighbourhood — a warren of mud-brick buildings without running water or electricity — told a reporter that more than half the people living there before the military crackdown that began May 14 were members of Boko Haram.

Montrealer. Man convicted of human trafficking after 2011 abduction of girl, 17

A 23-year-old Montreal man has been convicted on human-trafficking charges in Ottawa.

It's the first time someone has been convicted under human-trafficking laws in the country's capital since they were added to the Criminal Code in 2005.

Jamie Byron was accused of abducting a 17-year-old Windsor girl from her home in 2011, and forcing her to perform sexual acts on more than 100 men over a two-month period.

Byron was caught by an undercover Ottawa police officer.

He is due back in court on Sept. 6 to set a sentencing date.

U.S. school cafeteria

Gun goes off inside kindergartner's bag

A gun went off inside a young student's backpack in a Memphis, Tenn., school cafeteria Thursday, but no one was hurt, officials said.

The student was a kindergartner, or about five years old. The child was being questioned by police and could be expelled.

A news release from the Shelby County school district said school staffers immediately took control of the backpack.

The statement said there was no evidence of harmful intent. The gun fired as students were waiting for the opening bell.

The child was detained and was being questioned by officers, with the child's mother present. Police spokeswoman Karen Rudolph said investigators were trying to determine how the gun ended up in the backpack.

Liberal Leader Justin Trudeau answers questions from the media in Quebec City on Thursday.

Trudeau: Yes, he inhaled, and he's not apologizing

Policy of legalization. Liberal leader says marijuana prohibition policy costs law enforcement $500 million a year

Justin Trudeau says, yes, he's inhaled a few times and, yes, he was already a member of Parliament the last time he did and, no, he has no regrets about it.

The Liberal leader laid out his past marijuana use in a lengthy interview and in an exchange with reporters Thursday in which he made no apologies.

He said he's smoked pot five or six times in his life — including three years ago during a backyard get-together — and never really liked it much.

Now that he's come clean about using pot, he said, he'd like to move on and talk about the hundreds of thousands of people who have a criminal record for it.

Trudeau sought to shift the focus onto his policy of legalizing marijuana when asked by reporters about his drug use and whether it had been a mistake.

"No, it wasn't a mistake," Trudeau told journalists in Quebec City.

"I've never tried other types of hard drugs. I am not a consumer of marijuana but, yes, I've already tried it. I used it — maybe five or six times in my life."

He said he believes public opinion has moved on and he's confident that Canadians will judge him less harshly than his political opponents.

What matters now, Trudeau said, is ending a marijuana prohibition policy that he says costs law enforcement $500 million a year and has left 475,000 people with criminal records since the Conservatives took office in 2006.

Family connection

He has said that issue touched his own family. Trudeau originally made the marijuana admission in a candid interview with the Huffington Post, in which he also revealed that his youngest brother, Michel, was charged with marijuana possession shortly before his 1998 death in an avalanche.

Germany. Report blames bias for delay in probe of neo-Nazi murder spree

A far-right murder spree went undetected for years because German security services made scores of errors, partially because of institutional bias against immigrants, a parliamentary investigation concluded Thursday.

The report follows a 19-month review of how police and intelligence agencies failed to stop the National Socialist Underground group from killing eight Turks, a Greek and a policewoman between 2000 and 2007.

The group was only linked to the killings after two main members died in a murder-suicide after a botched 2011 bank robbery. The third main suspect is now on trial.

Committee members said police and domestic intelligence agencies were quick to attribute the slayings to organized crime by immigrant groups — never properly considering the possibility that the killings could have been racially motivated and linked. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mubarak's release from jail threatens to stoke turmoil

Egypt. Decision to place former leader under house arrest instead of letting him go free designed to ease criticism

Egypt's ousted leader Hosni Mubarak was released from prison Thursday and transported to a military hospital in a Cairo suburb where he will be held under house arrest, according to state TV.

Prime Minister Hazem el-Beblawi had ordered that Mubarak be put under house arrest as part of the emergency measures imposed this month after a wave of violence sparked by the ouster of Islamist leader Mohammed Morsi, who had succeeded Mubarak as Egypt's first freely elected president.

Thursday's move followed a court decision ordering the release in relation to charges of receiving gifts from a state-owned newspaper.

The release threatened to stoke the unrest as the Arab nation is already roiled in a crisis over a military coup against Morsi. Despite his release, the 85-year-old ousted leader still faces retrial on charges of complicity in the killing of protesters in the 2011 uprising against him, which could put him back behind bars. He also is being investigated in at least two other corruption cases.

State TV said a medically equipped helicopter transported Mubarak to the military hospital in the southern Maadi suburb.

Mubarak's wife, Suzanne, has been living in Cairo and keeping a low-profile, occasionally visiting Mubarak and their two sons in prison.

The prospect of Mubarak being freed, even if only temporarily, would feed into the larger crisis from the July 3 coup that unseated Morsi. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Halifax mall pulls ads denounced as sexist

A Halifax mall has yanked a series of controversial back-to-school shopping ads after a torrent of outrage from critics who said the campaign depicted young girls in a dim light.

"Mic Mac Mall is sincerely sorry for offending its customers," Rebecca Logan, the mall's marketing director, said Thursday. "We've heard what our customers have to say and we understand why you're angry. It was never intended to be offensive."

The ad campaign ran for a week on radio, television and billboards. It featured illustrations of young girls with lines like, "Mixing patterns — now that's a science!"

Another said: "Social studies? Does posting my new boots on Facebook count?" The mall will donate $5,000 to an organization aimed at empowering girls.

Utah. Mormons hope increase in missionaries will bring more converts

The number of Mormon missionaries surpassed 75,000 worldwide in August, driven by the church's decision to lower the minimum age for ambassadors of the Utah-based faith.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints reported the number of proselytizing missionaries has increased by 28 per cent from about 58,000 a year ago.

The church expects the number to swell to 85,000 by year's end.

Last October, the church announced men could begin serving at 18, instead of 19, and women at 19, instead of 21.

Church scholars say the unprecedented number of missionaries gives Mormons an opportunity to bring in a higher number of converts.

The church reported having 14.4 million members worldwide as of January 2012.

Young Mormon men are expected, but not required to serve in missions. Women have faced less pressure to serve. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Teen exchanged texts, letter with mom's killer

TV interview. Hannah Anderson said she confided in James Lee DiMaggio, 40, about troubles with her mom

A California teen whose mother and brother were killed by a family friend said on national television Thursday that she once confided in the man about troubles with her mother and explained text messages exchanged on the day of the attack.

Police say James Lee DiMaggio abducted Hannah Anderson and fled to the Idaho wilderness before he was killed by authorities.

In her first interview since her dramatic rescue Aug. 10, Hannah didn't say how her family died or describe her interactions with DiMaggio during the manhunt. The girl said she wrote to DiMaggio a year ago and he guided her through a rough patch with her mother.

"Me and him would talk about how to deal with it, and I'd tell him how I felt about it, and he'd help me through it. They weren't anything bad," she said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Finance. How much does it cost to raise a kid? Less than $4.5K yearly, says think-tank

A prominent think-tank raised eyebrows on Thursday by releasing data suggesting the financial toll of parenthood has never been lighter.

Research from the right-of-centre Fraser Institute found that the cost of raising a child in Canada totalled no more than $4,500 a year per offspring, less than half of more common estimates of $10,000 or more.

The research group, which studies economic and social issues from a fiscally conservative perspective, also argued the figure could be lowered even further by penny-wise parents who commit to pruning all unnecessary expenses from their child-rearing budgets.

But the Institute's research was greeted with consternation by many parents who contend the study fails to account for the rigours of modern life.

The research deliberately excluded the cost of day-care, housing and extra-curricular activities, all of which are vital and costly items in most family budgets, they said.

Study author Chris Sarlo said the bare-bones approach was a deliberate research decision. He opted to focus only on the additional cost each child would bring to the family, leaving out expenses that may have been previously incurred by the parents such as housing and automobiles.

After analyzing Statistics Canada's 2009 Survey of Household Expenses, Sarlo concluded the baseline cost of raising a child fell between $3,000 and $4,500 per child per year.

MEET THE MAN WHO HACKED ZUCKERBERG

KIERON MONKS
Metro World News in London, U.K.

When an unemployed Palestinian programmer named Khalil Shreateh hacked into billionaire Facebook founder Mark Zuckerberg's personal profile on the social network, the message he posted was respectful. "Dear Mark Zuckerberg," it began, "First sorry for breaking your privacy...."

The 30-year-old from Hebron had discovered a glitch that allowed him to post on any wall on the network. Facebook usually provides $500 US rewards for identifying such a weakness, but did not pay out in Shreateh's case, saying that he had violated protocol. In stepped the ethical hacker community, and over $12,000 US has been crowdsourced to reward the Palestinian, who was in a good mood when we spoke.

Hacker hall of fame

"I am very popular now. My family want me to get married, but I don't."
Programmer Khalil Shreateh

You could have written anything. Were you tempted to make the message spectacular?
No, because it was a serious vulnerability, but I was forced to write after Facebook ignored my first and second reports. I was frustrated.

Were you angry with Zuckerberg?
I admire Mark, and anyone who starts a project like that. Mark built Facebook in college, it did well, he got famous and everyone would want to be like him. I have a lot of respect.

Does this inspire you to hack more famous people and companies?
I will keep watching for new vulnerabilities and report them, as I have done many times before. I will not break anyone's privacy and hope that every hacker uses what they find the right way and not for the black market.

Is this type of hacking very popular in Palestine? Will you inspire more of it?
I can't answer that because intelligence people will come after me (laughs). But many are doing this everywhere. I hope it will inspire not only in Palestine as everybody needs these skills.

How have your friends and family reacted?
I want to say thanks to the hacker community for their donations, I really appreciate it. My family was worried I would be in jail and never have another job, but I thought I was helping people.

What are you planning to do with the money?
You cannot keep money in Palestine — I am very popular now. My family want me to get married, but I don't.

A baby's mouth.

This stunningly complicated organ uses fifty-two different muscles. It's vital for an infant's eating, breathing and boundless communicating. It will repeatedly reject Brussels sprouts, give gentle goodnight kisses after story time, and smile without fail each time Mom enters the room. But as the baby's mouth develops into adulthood, it will ultimately be used for badmouthing co-workers, interrupting people when they speak, and never bothering to say thank you. It's time we all got back to using our mouths for something more positive. To find out how, visit people for good.ca. After all, no one is born bad. Let's get back to good.

BORN IN CALGARY, ATLANTA ...

THE METRO LIST

Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca

Some weeks you just have to shake your head.

This is one of those weeks.

1 Sarin insanity. France's foreign minister suspects that the Syrian regime has used sarin nerve gas on its own people at least once, and likely multiple times as the civil war has intensified. It's hard to even think about, never mind look at the heartbreaking pictures of little kids reportedly gassed to death. But look we must.

2 We were bored. Then there's the story out of Duncan, Okla., about three teenagers who allegedly decided to drive by someone and shoot him dead, just for fun. The unlucky random "target" was Chris Lane, a 22-year-old Australian who was out for a jog. Guns don't kill people; they just help the people who do kill people.

3 What a mother. Meanwhile, back in Canada, the grandmother of autistic teen Max Begley got an anonymous letter from a person who signed it "One pissed off mother," complaining about the noises Max makes and demanding that they move out of the neighbourhood or "euthanize him." Police refuse to consider the letter a hate crime, but a love note it ain't. There has been a gratifying outpouring of support for Max since the letter surfaced, but "pissed off mother" has so far eluded justice. She'll have to live with herself, and that can't be fun.

4 The prince of pot. In the same week we learned he'll be a father for the third time, Justin Trudeau, the heir apparent to the national throne, also said he last smoked pot three years ago. There was a time when that admission would have sent any politician's ambitions down in flames (or is that up in smoke?), but it only seems to increase the number of cool colours in his pretty aura.

5 I am NOT a Canadian. Ted Cruz, Texas Republican senator and the latest Tea Party Great Partially Hispanic Hope for President, has a birther problem. He was born in Calgary, which despite some reports, is not in the United States, and holds dual U.S.-Canadian citizenship. Obviously reluctant to invite comparisons to other Canadian politicians such as Justin Trudeau, Cruz has quickly renounced his Canadian citizenship. But if you're born in Calgary, you're one of us, eh?

6 Goodbye, Dickens of Detroit. Elmore Leonard, who apparently could only write bestsellers, including Get Shorty, which was made into a great movie starring Shorty, er, John Travolta, has died at 87. If I had a dog, I'd name it Elmore, even if it was a girl dog. His bark had plenty of bite.

A castle fit for a hedgehog

ALEXANDER ZEMLIANICHENKO JR./THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rare albinos named after Prince George

Three rare albino hedgehog babies, born on the same day as Britain's new prince, have moved into a miniature castle at a Moscow petting zoo.

George, Alexander and Louis are named after the Prince of Cambridge, who has those three names.

On Thursday, when the hedgehogs turned one month old, they were shown into their new home at the All-Russia Exhibition Centre.

It's a wooden castle with carefully carved windows, dark velvet curtains and a plush bed. A red carpet was rolled out to welcome the hedgehog family into the new home.

Zoo spokeswoman Yevgeniya Polonskaya said she hopes the Prince of Cambridge himself would one day visit the hedgehogs, and said they "have a couple of invitations set aside for him."

Synopsis

Nothing ruins a family reunion like an invasion of masked killers. On the occasion of their parents' 35th wedding anniversary, the Davidson kids and assorted significant others gather at a remote Tudor mansion — is there any other type in these kinds of movies? — to enjoy dinner and one another, but instead end up in a fight for their lives. Only one of the guests, Erin (Sharni Vinson), has the know-how to protect herself. But will it be enough?

Be afraid, be very afraid, cuz You're Next!

Home-invasion horror. Lack of redeeming social values aside, this disturbing movie will have you peeking through your fingers

Richard: Mark, I don't know what it says about me, but I really liked You're Next. It's disturbing, violent and without any redeeming social value, but I enjoyed sitting in the theatre with my hands over my eyes, afraid of what I might see next. I'm not usually a fan of head trauma, but from what I saw as I peeked through my fingers, it worked well. You?

Mark: Richard, I found it one of the best movies of its type ever. Home invasion films are my kind of scary because it could — and does — happen. But I did find some redeeming social value in it. I thought it turned out to be a sly satire on family dynamics and materialism. Without revealing too many plot twists — and I loved them all — this movie starts as one thing and becomes something a little deeper. And, yes, I don't like to admit it, but I was scared through and through.

RC: It's hard to discuss without giving away a major plot twist, but I will say there is a Manson Family aspect to the story that really creeped me out. That and the anxiety-inducing John Carpenter style score throbbing in the background. It's all effective but it is the idea behind the movie that is truly disturbing.

MB: Let's not leave out the creepy animal masks! And I learned a lot from the movie, like how much can be accomplished with a two-by-four and a simple set of nails. In fact, I just got back from the hardware store. I'm ready!

RC: It is a lesson in survivalism to be sure, but keep in mind how it works out for everyone. I think I'll stick to calling 911. Lessons aside, I did like that while there are a number of hysterical characters here — who wouldn't be upset when your friends and family are being randomly murdered? — the hero, if you can use that word to describe someone who kills a person with a blender, is a woman. So often in these movies women are the scream queens while the men do the heavy lifting. Here, the only person with any self-preservation instincts is female.

MB: I think a blender is a perfect murder weapon for a woman — very Martha Stewart, in fact. Yes, this movie does have a strong woman at its centre, and it's set up nicely in the beginning, with the family sneering at her for her survivalist training.

Comedy

The World's End

Director. Edgar Wright

Stars. Simon Pegg, Nick Frost, Martin Freeman

A teenage pub crawl with four mates was the highlight of Gary King's (Simon Pegg) life. Twenty years later an attempt to relive that past glory becomes less about nostalgia and more about survival when the locals are revealed to be robots. Entertaining and inventive, The World's End isn't as laugh-out-loud funny as the first two parts of director Edgar Wright's trilogy, Shaun of the Dead and Hot Fuzz, but its thematic core — the difficulty of growing up — makes it the most mature of his films.

Action/Biography

The Grandmaster

Director. Wong Kar-Wai

Stars. Tony Leung, Zhang Ziyi

The life of the legendary Chinese martial-arts master Ip Man gets an appropriately mythical treatment in The Grandmaster, the comeback film from Hong Kong auteur Wong Kar-Wai. Working in the same fluid, lyrical style as his early masterpieces, Wong bends the conventions of the martial-arts genre to create an unusual sort of historical epic — one in which a country's long-standing social and cultural divisions become physicalized via depictions of hand-to-hand combat. The film seems to have been chopped up in the editing room, but it still has grandeur. ADAM NAYMAN

Drama/Horror

The Oxbow Cure

Directors. Yonah Lewis, Calvin Thomas

Stars. Claudia Dey

Canadian indie the Oxbow Cure isn't a horror film per se, but there's an underlying sense of fear that's pervasive throughout. Lena, struggling with chronic pain both physical and mental, escapes to her family's remote cabin. Living alone in the stark wilderness, her problems persist, terrorizing her on a daily basis. They're eventually personified through a menacing creature, forcing Lena to literally confront her demons. Working from a near dialogue-less script, Claudia Dey does a fine job conveying Lena's pain through movement and action. IAN GORMELY

Comedy/Romance

I Give it a Year

Director. Dan Mazer

Stars. Rose Byrne, Rafe Spall, Alex Macqueen

I Give it a Year follows the usual romcom formula. After a whirlwind romance Josh (Rafe Spall) and Nat (Rose Byrne) marry, but soon discover their union may not be a match made in heaven. Complicating things are Chloe (Anna Faris), Josh's ex-girlfriend, and Nat's new client, the handsome and flirtatious Guy (Simon Baker). There's no need for more plot details, because you already know how it ends. Fortunately, what it lacks in surprises it makes up for with charming performances from the leads as well as Minnie Driver and Stephen Merchant. RICHARD CROUSE

Comedy

Prince Avalanche

Director. David Gordon Green

Stars. Paul Rudd, Emile Hirsch

Loosely adapted from an Icelandic film, Prince Avalanche relocates the drama to Texas, where wildfires leave in its wake two disparate highway workers painting lines on highways. While uptight Alvin (Paul Rudd) and slacker Lance (Emile Hirsch) make for intriguing contrasts, their quiet budding conflict of personalities gives way to quieter moments in the stark landscape. Those expecting laughs along the lines of David Gordon Green's Pineapple Express may be disappointed, but Avalanche is delightfully meditative. STEVE GOW

Drama

Present Tense

Director. Belmin Söylemez

Stars. Sanem Öge

Belmin Söylemez's beautifully shot, slow and quietly heartbreaking film follows Mina as she tries to climb out of a dead end life. She's newly divorced, estranged from her family and stuck in poverty, and living in an Istanbul apartment that's about to be closed. A naive dream of moving to the U.S. without any means is taking a terrible toll on her, and while she's able to tell her wealthy fortune telling clients what's what, the blind spot concerning her own life is growing. Her self-defeating inertia contrasts with the bustle and opportunities in the city just outside the door.

In James Franco news, James Franco has done something very James Franco-y because, you know, he's James Franco.

Hollywood's hardest working Renaissance Man and jack of every single freaking trade you can imagine (no, seriously, just think of something obscure and maybe a little bit pretentious — betcha James Franco has done it) has announced that he will soon have his own reality show. The show, according to Variety, will air sometime in November and will be called James Franco Presents. What will James Franco be presenting, you ask? That's a stupid question.

He'll be presenting James Franco, in all his Franco-ness, as he explores his one billion different artistic pursuits. #James-Franco.

We're here, we're queer, but at the movies we disappear

GLAAD study. Group finds that LGBT people still underrepresented on the big screen

ParaNorman got props from GLAAD for its character Mitch, a football hero who references a boyfriend. CONTRIBUTED

We may be seeing more prominent gay and lesbian characters on TV shows, but the movie industry lags well behind the small screen, an advocacy group reports.

In its first study of LGBT roles in major studio releases, the Gay & Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation found that compared with TV, where there has been a significant shift over the past decade, "major studios appear reluctant to include LGBT characters in significant roles or franchises."

In its report released Wednesday, GLAAD found that of the 101 releases from Hollywood's six major studios in 2012, just 14 included characters identified as lesbian, gay, or bisexual. Most were no more than cameos or minor roles, it said — and none of the films tracked had transgender characters.

"Until LGBT characters appear more regularly in these studio films, there will be the appearance of bias," said Wilson Cruz, GLAAD's national spokesperson, in an interview. He added that his organization will be meeting with studio executives to discuss the findings.

The report — called the 2013 Studio Responsibility Index — rates each of the six studios according to the number of LGBT-inclusive films they released. Faring worst: 20th Century Fox and Disney, which each receive "failing" grades; the other four — Paramount, Sony, Universal and Warner Bros. — receive grades of "adequate."

Asked in advance Tuesday afternoon about the report, the studios had no immediate comment.

Inclusive animation

One of the best examples of an LGBT-inclusive film in 2012, according to GLAAD, was, interestingly, an animated family film: ParaNorman, about a misunderstood boy who can communicate with the ghosts of dead people. In the film, which came from the Portland-based studio LAIKA, Norman's cheerleader sister asks the hunky football hero Mitch for a movie date. He casually makes a reference to his boyfriend.

Snakes on a Plane was a scary low on the August horror slate. CONTRIBUTED

August can be a scary month at the cinema

End of summer. There's something about the entry into fall that leaves us craving freaky flicks

STEVE GOW
scene@metronews.ca

If the beginning of summer is for big tent-pole blockbusters featuring Hollywood's highest-ranking stars, then August is surely the dumping ground for low-grade horror hokum. Spawning such spine-chilling releases as Cujo, Jeepers Creepers and Fright Night, the eighth month is spookier than sharks in a tornado. Here's some of August's historic horror highs and scary lows:

Horror Highs

Freddy vs. Jason (2003)
This official mash-up of legendary franchises Nightmare on Elm Street and Friday the 13th may not have exactly earned the respect of film critics, but for fans of fright flicks, it was a nightmare-come-true. Plus, there's no denying its $80 million take at the box-office.

Open Water (2003)
Based on a true story, this thriller is a stripped-down seat-shifter about two scuba-divers stranded in shark-infested waters. The actors actually filmed alongside hungry sharks making Open Water, perhaps the only movie less frightening to watch than to star in.

You're Next (in theatres this weekend)
This year's entry into the August annals of horror cinema, You're Next holds much promise. It was picked up in a bidding war after it screened at the Toronto International Film Festival. Favourable early reviews about the thriller's fresh spin on the home invasion add to the optimistic outlook.

Scary Lows

Piranha 3D (2010)
Nobody was expecting this cheesy remake to see Oscar recognition, but the schlocky shocker about a lake terrorized by man-eating piranha is more about skin than scares. When your film's centrepiece is a feeding frenzy during a wet T-shirt contest, August seems like the obvious trash bin for that kind of gratuitous gore.

Snakes on a Plane (2006)
Despite the fact this Samuel L. Jackson thriller became a pop-culture phenomenon long before it hit theatres (thanks to its tacky title), the amphibious flick didn't meet its acquired Internet buzz. Then again, maybe all that pre-release hype just had potential moviegoers thinking "I've had it with hearing about these motherf—ing snakes on this motherf—ing plane."

Who is the cat behind the frown? Is she really that disgruntled? How Grumpy Cat went from Reddit to real fame

CASSANDRA GARRISON
Metro World News

You've likely seen the face a hundred times — the scrunchy, squinty, scowly little ball of fur the world has come to know as Grumpy Cat (real name: Tardar Sauce). Owners Tabatha and Bryan Bundesen posted a photo of her on Reddit in September 2012, and Grumpy Cat was born.

Almost overnight, she rose to worldwide stardom as her perpetually grumpy expression launched countless Internet memes.

Grumpy Cat now has more than a million Facebook and Twitter followers, a contract with Friskies, a calendar, a soon-to-be iced coffee line called Grumppuccino as well as a new book, Grumpy Cat: A Grumpy Book.

Grumpy Cat is grumpy because she didn't get a better cutline. CONTRIBUTED

From the owners

Feline dwarfism is a real thing that affects the famous cat.

- Quote. "Feline dwarfism is a condition caused by a genetic mutation. She wasn't bred to be a dwarf cat, and her parents were both average-sized cats," said owner Tabatha Bundesen. "She is normal and healthy, according to the vet, but she does move a bit slower and her back legs are less flexible than typical cats."

The author (who is a real sour puss) meowed to Metro about her newfound fame and publishing success.

Congratulations on your newly published book Grumpy Cat: A Grumpy Book. What do you think of making it onto The New York Times' best-seller list?
I wrote a book once. It was so awful it hit The New York Times' bestseller list. Meh. Did I mention it was awful?

How do you feel about being a household name and having your photo everywhere?
The best part about being a household name is that my humans have been able to help support animal shelters. You should check out your local animal shelter. There are many pets that need homes, and they also offer low-cost spay and neuter programs.

What do you think of the new royal baby Prince George? Any words of wisdom for a fellow overnight celebrity?
Prince William and Kate should read Grumpy Cat: A Grumpy Book to Prince George over and over to make sure he can handle royal life.

I'd say be grumpy to keep the people away, but that obviously doesn't work.

Have you considered the next move in your career? Are politics in your future?
The next move? Bed. Bed sounds like a great idea. (Yawn) Coffee and movies are the next step! Look for Grumpy Cat Grumppuccino and stay tuned for the Grumpy Cat movie to come out! I'll leave politics to the politicians, as they obviously need more practice.

Breaking Bad ends with tears for creator

Happy ending?
Vince Gilligan talks about bringing the series to a close

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

With Vince Gilligan's groundbreaking Breaking Bad ending its run after 62 episodes, we talked to the brain behind the series about what fans can expect — without giving away too much.

He scrapped the original ending long ago:
"I'm very impressed with J.K. Rowling for knowing where Harry Potter was going to end. That is impressive," he says. "I had ideas, in early going when I was writing the pilot all by myself, of where it would all end, and I discarded them pretty quickly once I hired my six writers. This last year, in fact, where we knew we had these final 16 episodes, we went through many, many possibilities. In fact, we went through every possibility we could think of because we didn't want to leave any stone unturned. We wanted to think of every possible outcome. That's why it took way longer than I thought it would take."

Writing the finale brought tears to his eyes:
"I cried because it was over. I was in my condo in Albuquerque, writing the very last page of the last episode — I was writing the very last paragraph, in fact — and I started to tear up," he remembers. "It was because I knew that is it. I was never going to get to write that character again. I mean, not on Breaking Bad. It was a hard-fought battle, and it was a result of thousands and thousands of hours of work and emotion, and I teared up because as hard as it was those six years, I knew in that moment I was going to be very sad it was over. And I was and I am sad. But I feel right that it ended when it did, creatively."

There won't be a movie:
"I'd be very surprised. Every show is different, and I think it's wonderful when there's a movie version of a TV show," he says. "But I always felt for this one show, for Breaking Bad, that it would be a bit of an injustice to the show itself, to what we were trying to build all these years, for it to end in a fashion that didn't feel complete and satisfying on the small screen. We're leaving it all on the field with these final eight episodes."

It doesn't have to end poorly for everyone:
"I have to be careful the way I answer these questions, because I don't want to ruin anything for anybody, but I can tell you that the writers and I, we're not out to punish any character," he offers. "There's the old saying that it's very easy to extract emotion from an audience by being mean to a child or beating a puppy with a stick or something. We were not trying to go for those kind of feelings. We looked at these episodes as our last chance to end the story in as satisfying a manner as possible. The best answer I can give is that I'm very satisfied by the ending. That is not to say it's a happy ending, nor a sad ending — nor to give any promise of how one will feel emotionally when it's over. But it is to say that I hope it feels proper. Fitting. It feels fitting to me."

J. Crew

File this one under 'Huh, OK'

J. Crew CEO Mickey Drexler will have a small cameo on this Sunday's episode of Breaking Bad. Look for him as a customer in Walter White's car wash, if that's the sort of thing you would find exciting to look for.

So how did this synergy between the decidedly unglamorous Breaking Bad and preppy mother ship J. Crew come about? Apparently, Drexler had a meeting with some Sony Television producers, and when they learned that he was obsessed with the show, they insisted that he make an appearance.

3 songs for the weekend

SOUND CHECK
Alan Cross
scene@metronews.ca

You'd think that original ideas for music videos have been exhausted by now. Not a chance.

Our Last Song/ Dominique Fricot

I ran into Dominique at a boot camp for artists last summer.

His new video features 3,750 still photos and 850 (!!!) costume changes.

Meltdown/ Love and Death

The story meeting must have gone something like this: "What about if we take this metal band and cast them as servants in a Chuck E. Cheese?" "Brilliant! Do it!"

Sabotage/A bunch of librarians

Some librarians decided to re-imagine one of the best music videos in history.

Any arguments you have against this are invalid.

Tired, broke and frustrated: Why Ohbijou won't be performing

The Toronto-based indie pop band Ohbijou is going on indefinite hiatus, with its frontwoman challenging how Canadians engage with multiculturalism and critics' perception of the group.

In a post on Tumblr published on Friday, lead singer Casey Mecija said that she felt the media ascribed a selective narrative of otherness for her and the Toronto septet's music because of her race, gender and sexuality.

"I can't help but feel sadness for the ways my body (has) been inscribed as a performer," Mecija wrote.

"I can't help but feel tired by the ways that my brown, performing body comes into contact with the multicultural sensibilities of Canadian audiences. I am frustrated by the ways that my Asian-ness and my sexuality have been at times hidden and at times showcased to support notions of an 'inclusive' Canadian multiculturalism."

In the post, Mecija does not rule out an eventual return to music.

"I am not giving up on the potential of such a project to alter the ways that people think and feel about queer life and the histories of colonialism out of which Canada was born," Mecija says. "But, as a band, we are tired and we are broke."

Banks puts her money where her mouth is

MICHAEL GREGER
Metro World News in Philadelphia

There is a reason behind everything Azealia Banks does, and it's usually centred on unleashing her inner creativity — whether it's yelling the C-word while wearing a Mickey Mouse sweater or strutting around stage in a motocross suit.

"I do my thing. I do whatever I feel like doing," Banks says. "People tried to define me and I tried to define myself, and I came up with all these explanations of what I do, but there is no explanation for what I do."

Even calling Banks a female rapper is a stretch. She refuses to be lumped into that whole scene. "A lot of female rappers coming out are post-hip- hop, or post-Nicki Minaj, or post-Young Money," she says. "I feel like I really transcended that whole kitschy, female rap scene."

It's hard to believe that Banks is only 22 years old. She comes across as mature beyond her years, sounding like a hip-hop psychologist in interviews.

"People like me notice all the social trends, not to say that I don't like them, but I'm looking a little deeper," Banks says. "I grew up on the Internet. ... It would be nice to see pop culture do three things at once, instead of one general trend. It's a lot of the sameness. ... It's like I've been eating the same thing for dinner for 10 years in a row."

For those who want something else, there is Banks' Broke With Expensive Taste, her highly anticipated debut album, which she says took her five years to create. The way she sees it, this is the way that she'd like to introduce herself.

"This is my actual arrival. All the other stuff was just me trying to figure out what I was," she says. "I've been working on it since I was 17. 1991 and Van Vogue, those were songs I was saving for my album, but because there was such a demand for me, I had to put them out early."

Diaz and Segel keep us all guessing in the Hamptons

While Cameron Diaz and Jason Segel did enjoy a dinner together in the Hamptons this week, apparently Life & Style magazine's claim that it was a date was a bit off-base. "Jason and Cameron were not romantic at all towards each other; very casual and friendly," a source tells E! News, adding that they were joined at upscale restaurant Nick & Toni's by another gentleman. The friends and Bad Teacher co-stars were also spotted shopping for groceries together earlier that day.

Brandy's ego bruised as she plays to empty stadium

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Poor Brandy.
The singer performed to an empty, 90,000-capacity stadium last weekend in Johannesburg, South Africa, as part of the Mandela Sports & Culture Day. Due to poor publicity, the crowd left after the football and rugby matches, not realizing — or maybe they did? — that Brandy was set to perform. Per the tweet of @Kabomo, a South African musician, "Brandy performed to an empty stadium. With the stadium lights on. She sulked after two songs and walked off." Which, you know, is more than I would have done. I would have looked out and hightailed it to a bar where I would then sit for the next 30 years of my life and think about how it all went wrong.

Lawsuit against Kanye in pipeline after he allegedly punched paparazzo

Kanye West is facing a lawsuit from a paparazzo over allegedly attacking him outside Los Angeles International Airport, according to TMZ. Plaintiff Daniel Ramos claims that "without warning or provocation," West "suddenly attacked, punching (the plaintiff) and attempting to wrestle the camera from" Ramos' hands, according to the filing. Ramos' attorney, Gloria Allred, claims that Ramos fell to his knees on the ground "with enough force that he sustained injuries to his right hip, as well as accompanying pain and emotional distress." He is seeking unspecified damages.

Hot dogs must hate hamburgers. Though they're the yin and yang of the home barbecue scene, take a step off your deck and gourmet burgers are selling for a premium at fancy boutique restos while dogs are relegated to the kids menu.

Not that hot dogs can't hold their own when it comes to haute cuisine. In my mind, the whole concept of a meal in an elongated bun was designed for getting creative with elaborate toppings (and I'm not just talking mustard, relish and ketchup).

Finding a wine that will stand strong against a barrage of eclectic flavours piled on top of a well-cooked wiener is a challenge worthy of The Amazing Race.

I like the versatility of the moscato grape. Originating in Italy, it's synonymous with a slightly sweet style of white wine that's become the darling of winemakers the world over.

Australians love it, and Jacob's Creek 2012 Moscato ($9.95 to $13.49) offers a lightly tropical mix of melon and pineapple that's a perfect foil for anything that will add a spicy, sharp, salty or sweet layer across your designer dog. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. Yankees complete domination of Jays

MLB. Toronto swept in 4-game series for the second time despite leading in each game

Andy Pettitte pitched six effective innings, Curtis Granderson homered and the New York Yankees beat Toronto 5-3 on Thursday after a 3 1/2-hour rain delay for their 10th straight victory against the Blue Jays.

Eduardo Nunez hit a two-run single, and the surging Yankees took advantage of a missed call to win their fifth consecutive game and 10th in 12 overall. New York improved to 12-1 against Toronto this season with its second four-game sweep of the Blue Jays, and moved within 3 1/2 games of the second AL wild-card spot.

On Thursday

Yankees	Blue Jays

The Yankees have won 13 home games in a row against Toronto, their longest streak against one team since a 14-game run against Kansas City from August 2002 to April 2006.

The last-place Blue Jays have lost five straight and 11 of 15. The only other opponent to sweep a pair of four-game series from them in one season was the 1978 Milwaukee Brewers.

Toronto had a lead in every game of this series, just as it did during New York's four-game whitewash at Yankee Stadium in late April. The Blue Jays have dropped 22 of 24 in the Bronx, dating to 2011. Their 10-game skid vs. New York is their longest against one team in a single season since losing 11 in a row against Boston in 2002.

Alex Rodriguez made a pair of important plays at third base and worked a walk that started a Yankees rally.

Pettitte (9-9) gave up four hits and three walks to win his second consecutive start after going 0-3 in his previous five. His only blemish was J.P. Arencibia's leadoff homer in the fifth.

Teen golfer Ko on track for a repeat

Lydia Ko is back on top of the Canadian Women's Open leaderboard.

The 16-year-old Ko, the winner last year at Vancouver Golf Club at an LPGA Tour-record age of 15 years, 4 months, shot a 5-under 65 on Thursday in perfect conditions at Royal Mayfair for a share of the first-round lead with Angela Stanford and Christel Boeljon.

Ko, the South Korean-born New Zealander, had six birdies and a bogey. She birdied the opening hole, though she figured that might be a bad omen.

"When I start off with a birdie I haven't really played that well, so yeah, I was kind of nervous that I did make a birdie on the first," she said.

Stadler leads after soggy first round

Kevin Stadler teed off just after breakfast and finished right before dinner. It took him nearly 11 hours to complete a 7-under 64 at Liberty National, his lowest score on the PGA Tour since the first week of February.

The FedEx Cup playoffs got off to a soggy start Thursday with two rain delays that lasted six hours.

Tiger Woods came out of the first delay by missing a short birdie putt on the par-5 13th and then rolling in three straight birdies to get into the mix in his round of 67. Graham DeLaet of Weyburn, Sask., also had a 67.

Hockey Canada: Hold the ice

Orientation camp.
High price to insure 47 invitees means players will settle for information sessions and bonding activities

Steve Yzerman says players won't hit the ice at the Team Canada orientation camp "because of the high cost of insurance." THE CANADIAN PRESS FILE

Steve Yzerman would prefer to get Canada's players on the ice at the upcoming orientation camp for the Olympic men's hockey team.

But the price tag to insure players against injury is too high for Hockey Canada, so the four-day camp starting Sunday in Calgary will consist of informational meetings about the Games in Sochi, Russia, and fostering team chemistry off the ice.

"Not going on the ice isn't the end of the world," says Yzerman, the executive director of the national men's team. "There's a lot of other things that need to be done in preparation, logistically going through how we're going to get there, where we'll stay, where family and friends may stay, a walkthrough of the venues, drug-testing policy, a lot of informational things we need to go through and get out of the way. This is a good time to do it."

Forty-seven players — five goaltenders, 17 defencemen and 25 forwards — are scheduled to arrive in Calgary on Sunday and head to Hockey Canada's headquarters at Canada Olympic Park. Canada can take three goaltenders and 22 skaters to Sochi.

Among the summer-camp invitees are 15 players who won Olympic gold in Vancouver in 2010, including Sidney Crosby. The Pittsburgh star's overtime goal lifted Canada to a 3-2 win over the U.S. in the final.

The Saddledome is undergoing restoration from severe flooding in June, but that's not keeping the players off the ice next week, says Yzerman.

"It's strictly insurance," he explains. "It's because of the high cost of insurance Hockey Canada is obligated to place on the players we're not going to skate."

It's up to each country's federation to insure NHL players against injury at summer camps. Hockey Canada president Bob Nicholson has said that would cost more than $1 million. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Grand jury

Hernandez indicted on murder charge

Former New England Patriot Aaron Hernandez was indicted Thursday on first-degree murder and weapons charges in the death of a friend whose bullet-riddled body was found in an industrial park about a mile from the ex-player's home.

The six-count grand jury indictment charges Hernandez with killing 27-year-old Odin Lloyd, a semi-professional football player from Boston.

Hernandez, 23, pleaded not guilty to murder and weapons charges in June, and he is being held without bail.

He had a brief court appearance in Attleboro, Mass., on Thursday afternoon. Afterward, his lawyer Michael Fee said the defence was pleased to be on a path to a jury trial and was looking forward to testing the prosecution's evidence.

CFL. Ray and Argos look to bury beat-up Stamps

Ricky Ray's on a roll, and he knows it.

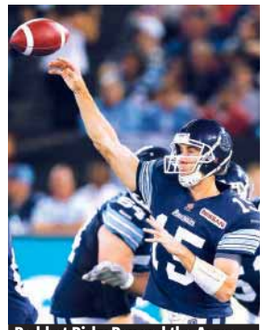
The veteran quarterback has a completion average approaching 90 per cent over his last three starts and is a big reason why Toronto is the CFL's hottest team. That's not exactly good news for an injury-plagued Calgary Stampeders squad that will face the Argonauts at Rogers Centre on Friday night.

Ray, 33, has completed 64 of 73 passes his last three starts for 851 yards and eight touchdowns. He finished 30 of 35 passing for 413 yards and three TDs in Toronto's 36-33 home win over Edmonton on Sunday and is second overall in passing with 1,768 yards with 14 TDs and no interceptions.

And the 11-year veteran says he can feel he's in the groove.

"Yeah, just because things are going well and we're making a lot of plays," he said. "We had a couple of games early on in the year where things were a little bit tougher to come by and we weren't making as many plays so definitely you feel like you're doing a lot of good things out there."

This season, Ray has completed 143 of 183 passes, a 78.1 per cent clip. Calgary offensive co-ordinator Dave Dickenson holds the single-season record of 74 per cent set in '05 with B.C. Dickenson also set the CFL passer-efficiency record of 118.8 that season but Ray boasts a mark of 133.0 thus far. Toronto (5-2) heads into a rematch of last year's Grey Cup, having won four straight.



Red-hot Ricky Ray and the Argos face the Stampeders on Friday.
TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE FILE

Calgary (5-2) won't be at full strength Friday night. Among those who will be missing in action are veteran slotback Nik Lewis, who suffered a fractured fibula in last week's 26-22 loss to B.C, and running back Jon Cornish (thigh contusion), last year's CFL rushing leader.
